This document provides you with key investor information about this fund. It is not marketing material. The information is required by law to help you understand the nature and the risks of investing in this fund. You are advised to read it so you can make an informed decision about whether to invest.

Lupus alpha Volatility Risk-Premium (Unit class C)

ISIN: DE000A1J9DU

This fund is managed by Lupus alpha Investment GmbH.

German securities code (WKN): A1J9DU

Objectives and investment policy

Investment objective

The fund management aims to generate an absolute, positive return that is independent of developments on the equity and bond markets (absolute return concept). The fund is actively managed within the framework of its objectives and does not follow any benchmark index.

Investment strategy

The assets that are admissible according to the KAGB and the investment conditions can be acquired for the fund. The investment management company can also invest more than 35% of the value of the fund in bonds, bonded loans and money market instruments of one or more issuers (see "Investment limits for public sector issuers" in the prospectus).

Use of derivatives

Derivative transactions may be entered into for the fund for the purpose of hedging, efficient portfolio management and generating additional income.

Special features

The minimum investment amount in this unit class is EUR 500,000.

Redemptions of unit certificates

Investors can request the redemption of their units from the management company on each valuation date. The management company may suspend redemption if exceptional circumstances make this necessary when taking investors' interests into account.

Use of income

Income from the unit class is distributed.

Recommendation

The investor should have at least a medium-term investment horizon.

Risk/reward profile

Risk and reward indicator

Typically lower return

Typically higher return

Lower risk

Higher risk

The historical data used to calculate the synthetic indicator is not a reliable indication of the future risk profile.

The risk and reward category shown may be subject to change and may be amended over time.

Even a fund in category 1 is not completely risk-free.

The Lupus alpha Volatility Risk-Premium C fund is classified in category 5 because its unit price typically fluctuates rather strongly and therefore both risks of loss and chances of gains can be correspondingly rather high.

The following risks have no direct impact on this categorisation, but may still be significant:

Default risk: If counterparties fail to meet contractual payment obligations or meet them only in part, the fund may incur losses as a result. Even with a careful selection of the securities it cannot be excluded that losses occur due to the deterioration of assets of issuers.

Concentration risk: By concentrating its assets on a few markets or assets, the fund is particularly dependent on these few markets/assets.

Liquidity risk: If securities are traded in a rather narrow market segment, selling these assets may be problematic in situations of insufficient liquidity.

Risks in connection with derivatives transactions: Derivative transactions for hedging purposes reduce the fund's overall risk, but may reduce opportunities for returns. If transactions are conducted with derivatives as part of the investment strategy, the risk of loss for the fund may increase as a result, at least temporarily.

Operational risk and custody risk: The fund may be the victim of fraud or other criminal actions. It may also incur losses due to misunderstandings or errors by employees of the investment management company or a custodian or outside third parties. Finally, external events, such as fires, natural disasters and the like, may have an adverse effect on its management or the custody of its assets.

For a detailed description of the risks, please refer to the "Risk information" section of the prospectus.
